ALDRICH MAKES ADDRESS

Fails to Make It Occasion to Promulgate Central Bank Project.

CHICAGO, ILL., November 6.—After an elaborate dinner to-night at the Congress Hotel, United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, chairman of the National Monetary Commission, explained to the members of the Commercial Club of Chicago the operations of the commission, and referred in a general way to its purposes.

There were about 250 men at the tables, among them a number of national renown, including former Senator Teller, of Colorado, who is a member of the commission; Senators Dick, of Ohio; Owen, of Oklahoma; Smoot, of Utah; and Bourne, of Oregon; Assistant Secretary C. D. North, of the Treasury Department; Professor A. Platt Andrew, director of the mint, and ex-Governor Herriek, of Ohio.

The occasion was regarded as of especial importance because it brought out the first explanation by Mr. Aldrich of the plans of organization which has been formed for the avowed purpose of reforming the financial system of the country.

Frederick W. Robinson, of the Commercial Club, presided and introduced Senator Aldrich. To those of his hearers who expected Senator Aldrich to use the occasion for the promulgation of the central bank project or any other plan or theory of national finance his speech must have been in the nature of a surprise. He declared at the outset "that the question of a definite plan for reforming existing conditions has not yet been taken up by the commission," and he added that no plan would be adopted "until after an opportunity has been afforded for the most careful and exhaustive study of all the conditions that surround the problem." He declared that he had accepted the present occasion as an opportunity "to make an earnest appeal to you, as the representative men of an important section of the country, to give to the commission the advantage of your valuable counsel, and cooperation in securing the adoption of a satisfactory remedial plan—one that will surely conserve and promote the vital interests of all the people of this great nation."

Senator Aldrich paid tribute to the business men of Chicago, which he described as "perhaps the most important financial center of the country," as having by their enterprise, ability and foresight contributed largely to the upbuilding of a great and prosperous empire, and he pledged the best efforts and judgment of the Monetary Commission "to secure the adoption of a monetary system the wisest and best that the country can have."

Seebrook—Fauquier. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] STANTON, Va., November 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennon Clark, of Washington, have issued invitations to the marriage of Mrs. Clark's sister, Miss Louise Connelley Fauquier, of Staunton, daughter of the late Dr. A. M. Fauquier and niece of Major Holmes Conrad, to Henry H. Seebrook, of Epiphany Church, Washington, November 17. A reception will follow at 1807 H Street. They will be home at the Severn, Baltimore, after January 1.

"City of Augusta" Floated. SAVANNAH, GA., November 6.—After being around thirty-six hours, the Ocean Steamship Company's steamer, the "City of Augusta," was floated this afternoon, and came up the Savannah River with a decided list to starboard. It was thought she is badly damaged, but a survey will be held. The tug McCauley ran around while trying to aid the steamer. Four crew were used in freeing the City of Augusta.

Sells a Candidate. BRISTOL, Va., November 6.—State Senator Samuel R. Sells, minority leader in the last session of the Legislature, to-day formally declared his candidacy for Congress in the First District in opposition to Congressman Walter Brownlow. Sells is a wealthy lumberman.

"Her American Husband"

The second entertainment of the Radcliffe lyceum series was offered last night at the Academy of Music in the form of what the program called a musical comedy, under the title of "Her American Husband." A hodge-podge of stupid lines and antique songs, headed by Walter Cluxton. The piece was neither a musical comedy, nor a musical comedy, but a musical comedy. The writer has an indistinct recollection that he once saw a poorer comedian than this Mr. Cluxton, but he cannot recall who he was. Except for the Italian imitations of Miss Catherine Clark, which were really clever, the only genuine comedy that one was able to discover occurred in a camp scene, when a lieutenant of cavalry, dressed in regulation blue trousers and blouse, and wearing a campaign hat turned up in front in schoolboy fashion, picked up a log fire, carried it over to the side of the stage, and set it down by a piano-set out in the woods.

There were seven people in the cast and no chorus at all—the chorus wasn't bad. W. D. G.

Miss DeAcosta Weds Mr. Sargent. NEW YORK, November 6.—The marriage of Andrew Robinson Sargent, a son of Professor Charles S. Sargent and Mrs. Sargent, of Brookline, Mass., and Miss Mary DeAcosta, a daughter of Mrs. Ricardo DeAcosta, was celebrated this afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, 1037 Madison Avenue. The ceremony was performed by Monsignor Lavelle, of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The bride was escorted to the temporary altar by her brother, Ricardo DeAcosta. She was attended by her two sisters, the Misses Angela and Mercedes DeAcosta. Charles S. Sargent, Jr., a brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. There were no ushers. There was a reception at the residence of the bride, Mrs. Sargent, an architect and a graduate of Harvard. His bride is a sister of Mrs. Philip M. Lydell and Mrs. Oren Root. Mr. and Mrs. Sargent will live in Brookline, Mass.

Charlotte County Court. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] EUREKA MILLS, VA., November 6.—In the case of R. A. Roberts for the killing of Jim Gardner, colored, last July, the jury which has been trying the case at this term of the County Court has brought in a verdict of ac-

THAT FAMOUS FAIRBANKS BEARD IS GONE--ALL GONE

Those Hirsute Portieres Which Have Bloomed in Beauty Since 1892 Fall Before the Deadly Razor, and the State Department Is Excited.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 6.—Americans in China have written here the most astounding news about Charles W. Fairbanks, formerly Vice-President, who is now making a world tour. It is that Mr. Fairbanks has shaved off his beard, which is so familiar all over the United States, and in many instances American travelers who have known him well have failed to recognize him.

That Fairbanks beard has been in evidence since some time in the eighties, and so careful has it been kept that the beard that attracted admiration in 1892 was exactly the same shape and the same color in March, 1909, when Mr. Fairbanks handed over the Senate gavel to Vice-President Sherman.

The advice from China are also that Mr. Fairbanks has retained his mustache and that the loss of the beard has made the hero of the butlerlike cocktail much more youthful in appearance.

It was reported that the State Department regarded this news about Mr. Fairbanks as the first encouraging sign that he might consider accepting the appointment as minister to China. It is said that one of the reasons Mr. Crane was recalled was that his style of beard was not regarded as suitable to the "post celestial."

quittal. Roberts was defended by V. C. Carrington and C. R. Green.

Frank C. Thornton, cashier of the defunct Charlotte Banking and Insurance Company, who was indicted by the grand jury at the last term of court, and whose trial was set for yesterday, appeared with his counsel, Congressman H. D. Flood and W. C. Carrington. The trial was postponed to December 15.

The docket is a full one, and court, which has been in session since Wednesday, will likely continue through next week.

UCHIDA COMING

He Receives Appointment as Ambassador to United States. TOKIO, November 6.—The appointments of Yasuya Uchida as ambassador to the United States and of Minori Atakawa, formerly minister to Mexico, as minister to Spain, were gazetted to-day.

A telegram to the State Department from Mr. Uchida, the United States ambassador at Tokio, states that Baron Uchida has been appointed ambassador of Japan to the United States. The baron has lately returned to Japan from Vienna, where he served as ambassador from 1904 to 1907. His retirement from Vienna was for the purpose of accepting the Washington post.

Baron Uchida has been in the diplomatic service of Japan since he entered it twenty-two years ago. He was born in 1865 and was appointed secretary of legation in London in 1893, and was transferred to a similar post in Peking, serving from 1895 to 1897. In 1899 he was made vice-minister of foreign affairs, and in 1901 he was transferred to the legation at Peking, serving until 1906. About a year later he was sent to Vienna.

Mrs. Uchida is a daughter of Mr. Tsuruta, a millionaire of Yamato. She was educated in Vassar College, in the State of New York.

Cunningham—Gifford. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] HAMPTON, VA., November 6.—The marriage of Miss Anne Kimberly Gifford, daughter of Major John H. Gifford, U. S. A., retired, and Lieutenant James Cunningham Cunningham, of Fort Washington, Md., was celebrated in the chapel at Fort Monroe this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The wedding was a brilliant affair and was witnessed by a large gathering of society people.

Wets Win Victory. MIAMI, FLA., November 6.—In the local option election here to-day the wet vote won by the close majority of 43. The country precincts voted dry, but could not overcome a majority of 131 registered within the city limits.

GIRLS' LIVES SAVED BY HEROISM OF MEN

In Face of Death They Rescue Employees from Burning Factory.

PANIC FOLLOWS EXPLOSION

Fire Completes Work, and Three Buildings Are Laid in Waste.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] WILKESBARRE, PA., November 6.—A series of small explosions, one following the other so rapidly that they could not be counted, destroyed the Powell Powder Squib factory, near Plymouth, this afternoon, killing one girl, Minnie Picton; seriously injuring the owner, John R. Powell, and severely wounding twenty girl employees. The building, factory, several out-buildings and Powell's residence were destroyed by the flames, which spread quickly, and it is remarkable that the list of dead and injured is not greater. One hundred and forty girls were employed in the factory, and when the first explosion occurred in the packing room on the second floor all made a rush for the exits. Those on the first floor escaped without injury, but the girls working on the second floor saw flames after the explosion, and before the middle of the floor could reach the doors the whole second floor was in flames. Some were burned as the powder flashed, some were injured as the explosions blew walls and machinery about, others were hurt in their wild panic as they sprang from the second story windows or flung themselves down the stairways.

Heroism displayed. But for the heroism of the owner, his nephew, John Powell, and a driver, Richard Roberts, many would doubtless have been killed. The two Powells were the last to leave the building, and by the time they believed all the girls were safe, they had been severely burned. Richard Roberts rushed to close the door of the largest powder magazine, but got there just as the flames reached the powder, and it exploded. He had partly closed the door, however, and the force of the explosion was confined to the magazine itself. He was badly injured, but not killed.

The Picton girl either fainted or was knocked senseless by something striking her, and was overlooked and buried in death. The men who rescued the others are: Annie Lasbesky, Ruth Baird, Mary Barth, Nellie Rykosky, Alice Kelley, Stella Ryan, Mary Shook, Anna Walker, Anna Freager, Edith Jones, Victoria and Josephine Cherry, Ethel Craig, Thomas Cross, Ruth and Mary Gibson, Annie McBride and Jessie Edwards, all of Plymouth. They were burned or bruised.

They Grow Highly Enthusiastic Over Her Talk on Woman Suffrage.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] NEW YORK, November 6.—Mrs. Oliver P. Belmont talked to the girls of the Wadleigh High School League this afternoon in her reception room at 605 Fifth Avenue, and made such a deep impression upon them that they not only gave her half a dozen rounds of applause, but voted all sorts of time and money for the cause.

After explaining to the youthful fighters for franchises that they had received much kindness from their parents and an education from the State, and that they ought to be grateful for it all, Mrs. Belmont confided to them some facts about her own girlhood.

"When I was about your age," she said, "I used to spend a good deal of my time dreaming about what I hope you don't give so much attention to. I used to picture to myself that when I was really grown up I should be the wife of a very great man. My future husband represented to me some powerful personage who should be a leader among men."

"Then I thought I should like to have a number of sons. One of them I wanted to be a bishop. I saw myself sitting under his pulpit and listening to his eloquent discourse."

"Another son of mine, as I planned it all, was to be a great explorer and discover the North Pole. A third I wanted to be a great physician. It was my ambition that he should discover a cure for tuberculosis."

"I didn't think anything about having any daughters. In those days women didn't count for very much in the work of the world. I never thought about doing anything for humanity myself or of writing any books or painting pictures or making myself famous in any way. All I wanted in my most ambitious moments was to bask in the reflected glory won by my husband and sons."

"I trust," girls, went on Mrs. Belmont, "that you haven't any such idea as that. You have received as good an education as have your brothers. It is your duty to do all you can for your country. The time has come for us American women to be great ourselves, independently of our husbands. We must not sit quietly by as we used to do, waiting for some man to come along and marry us. Every woman must take upon herself the responsibility of citizenship."

HAS MESSAGE FOR CRANE

Supposed Embassy From Chinese Government in Chicago. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] CHICAGO, ILL., November 6.—Captain C. E. Eit, said to be an emissary of the Imperial Chinese government, arrived in Chicago to-day with a message for Charles R. Crane, recently deposed United States minister to China. After spending several fruitless hours in trying to find Mr. Crane, Captain Eit said he would leave for the East to-night, where he has been told Mr. Crane now is. When he registered at the hotel, he informed Clerk Edward Burke that he did not desire any newspaper reporters to see him, and that he was "especially out to any Chinamen who might call."

"I am here," he said to the clerk, "to see Charles R. Crane, who was appointed minister to China, and then recalled. I have a message for him, but cannot disclose its nature."

Cool, Clear Water the Year 'Round

Making Every Home Happy

By driving out ignorance, darkness and gloom from the home, every home is made happy. And The Cardwell Machine Company, of this city, is certainly doing a great work in this respect, as it manufactures the Schmidt-Ponten Gas Machine, which is undoubtedly the greatest illuminator ever made. It is the safest, simplest, cheapest, and best gas machine in the world. For particulars, write The Cardwell Company.
